ANZVS Biennial Scientific Conference and Education & Update Day

11-13 November 2022 at RACV City Club, Melbourne, Vic

Welcome

The Australia and New Zealand Vulvovaginal Society is hosting the 2022 Biennial Scientific Meeting at RACV City Club, 501 Bourke Street, Melbourne from 11-13 November 2022.

This year we are pleased to welcome a number of international speakers. Program highlights will include Dr Ariadne Caussade speaking on Lichen Sclerosus in children and other common paediatric dermatoses, and Professor Gary Ventolini on the gynaecological impact of a dysbiotic vaginal microbiome. Dr Irene van der Avoort from the Netherlands will be presenting in person, and Dr Claudi Marchitelli (Argentina) will speak on the effect of vulval dermatoses on sexual function.

We will also welcome leading Australian experts including Professor Gayle Fischer, Dr Sonia Grover speaking on Vulvodynia in young patients and Dr Charlotte Elder presenting on Vulval care and management for transgender patients.

We have an exciting and informative program planned for you, coupled with our annual Education & Update Day where we will tackle The Principles of Diagnosis – General Approach to the Evaluation and Management of Vulvar Disorders, Sexual History taking and Pelvic Floor Assessment,

Stay tuned for the full program in the next week.

We eagerly anticipate seeing you in person at our Biennial Conference & Education Day. It has been too long since we were able to meet together and share our knowledge and support each other. Rest assured that the committee has implemented extra measures to create a COVID-safe environment including open-air catering space and a very large meeting space to enable physical distancing.
